Winners Revealed in 2024 CSA Awards Programme

The Commissioning Specialists Association (CSA) was delighted to have returned to London on the evening of Thursday 10th October for the staging of its 9th Annual Awards Ceremony. With nine awards categories in this year's programme, the entry process again produced some truly exceptional entries from right across the commissioning arena.

For the second year running, the Leonardo Royal Hotel City, overlooking the Tower of London and the River Thames played host to the presentation dinner, during which professional endeavour, product innovation, skills development, engineering prowess and service delivery were all acknowledged and celebrated.

Operated by the CSA and produced by Touchwave Media, the awards programme acknowledges the skill, effort and sheer dedication of the people and businesses serving today's complex built environment. With sponsorship provided by a host of leading industry names, well deserved industry-wide recognition was given to those businesses and individuals that are excelling in their commissioning endeavours.

Finalists & Winners

Following a comprehensive judging process, which again combined the remote assessment and scoring of each entry with a virtual gathering of the judging panel, some 36 Finalists across the nine award categories were determined. Congratulations go to all those who were selected as a Finalist, and particularly so to our nine deserving winners.

The main presentation ceremony was hosted by ITV's Andrea Byrne, who also conducted an enthusiastically supported game of 'Higher or Lower' on behalf of the CSA's elected charity for this event, Great Ormond Street Hospital. A total of £2605.00 was raised on the night, so sincere thanks to everyone who generously donated. The event was rounded off with some fantastic live music performed by our wonderful band, The Parachutes.

CSA Chairman, Keith Barker, commented: "This year's awards programme proved to be another huge success and once again provided an excellent forum through which to celebrate business and professional excellence right across our sector."

His colleague, and newly appointed CEO of the CSA, Neil Burdess, added: "This year's entry submissions were of an extremely high calibre, making the whole judging process extremely challenging. In most cases, the points differential was minimal, with the Judges commenting on both the quality and variety of entries. I would like to offer my sincere congratulations to all those who took the trouble to enter and would urge everyone engaged in the commissioning arena to consider the commercial value that this activity can bring to their business, and ensure they are suitably represented at future events."

The call for nominations for the 2025 CSA Awards will open early in the New Year, so if you have not yet attended this highly respected event, or submitted an entry, please visit the website, and consider the options. Entries are sought across the nine categories, which cover the achievements of both companies and the individuals working within them.

For the awards dinner itself, individual places, or tables of ten can be secured, with the package including reception drinks, a superb 3-course meal with wine, the awards ceremony itself and excellent post awards entertainment. It really is a night not-to-be-missed, providing a wonderful opportunity to engage with your peers and celebrate the achievements of this key industry sector.
